A MESSAGE FROM YOUR PRESIDENT

Well, it's that time of year when we Motorola retirees gather for the first meeting of a new year. Whether to reminisce over times long past or to tell tall tales of the past summer, it is always good to see old friends and to make new ones.

I want to thank Carl Dietrich, who retired from the board in May, for his service to the club. I also wish to thank Jackie Wishon for stepping up and joining the board, as well as the rest of the board and all the people working quietly in the background to keep the club running smoothly.

For those of you who don't know me, I joined Motorola in early 1966 as an expeditor of High-Rel Products. From there I moved into scheduling of plastic assembly, then to manager of scheduling for R F Products. From there I moved to manager of scheduling, customer service and inventory control in the Materials Organization, from which I retired in the spring of 1994.

I look forward to seeing you at the meetings throughout the year and hearing your thoughts on ways to enhance the club and continue to serve our members. Regards,
George DeWitte, President

Motorola Retirees' Club Meeting Minutes

Granite Reef Senior Center
May 25, 2011

President John Babcock called the meeting to order at 11:40AM.

George DeWitte was busy selling Ray Orth Raffle tickets. Interest in purchasing tickets for the "Adopt a Grandchild" Scholarship Fund is always high. Encouraging our grand-children to continue their education is very important Vera Fay was happy to be the lucky winner of May's Ray Orth Drawing. Vera received $86.00.

May birthdays were honored with a round of applause.

We were happy to be joined by some guests.

The Members approved the April 2011 minutes and financials. The balance of funds on hand for April 2011 is $29,516.37.

Officers of the Motorola Retirees' Club of Arizona for the year 2010/2011 were on hand to support the May luncheon, John Babcock President, Roy Hejhall Vice President, Carl Dietrich Vice President, George DeWitte Vice President, Frances Peterson Treasurer, and LuDene Jackson Secretary.

Tom Filesi officiated in the installation of the following 2011-2012 Motorola Retirees' Club of Arizona officers:

President, George DeWitte

Past-President, John Babcock

Vice-Presidents, Phil McNett, Jackie Wishon and Roy Hejhall

Treasurer, Frances Peterson

Secretary, LuDene Jackson.

John Babcock led us in The Pledge of Allegiance and the Prayer.

There was a wonderful selection of food for our Pot Luck. The members out did themselves. Enough great desserts were available to tempt anyone.

Tom Filesi did a great job calling the bingo games. Thanks to him and thanks to the helpers distributing bingo cards and taking money.

Bingo was rewarding for some. Sammy Statini and Manny Statini won $10.00 each. Shirley Humphrey's prize was $15.00. Angel Hoge and Shirley Newberry were proud winners of $21.00 each. And $51.00 made Harriett Hopper happy.

The September 28, 2011 General Meeting will be a Potluck. Craig Davis will entertain us with a Magic Show. Mark your calendar. You don't want to miss our first meeting of the Motorola Retirees' Club of Arizona 2011-2012 season.

Linda Collie, Jackie Wishon, Shirley Newberry, Shirley Humphrey, Isabelle Blachere, Diane Chesi and Aline Dupere assisted Georgene DeWitte, our luncheon manager. You girls do a marvelous job. The members appreciate all your efforts.

Meeting was adjourned at 2:00PM

Respectfully Submitted,
LuDene Jackson Secretary

What's Sweet About Brown Sugar

This baking staple moonlights as First Aid and a natural pest buster. By Leslie Barrie from Health Magazine.

FAST FIRST AID

If you nicked yourself shaving and don't have antiseptic on hand, reach for the sweet stuff--it can help heal minor cuts in a pinch. "Brown sugar acts as an anti-inflammatory, and its anti-microbial properties may prevent infection. Clean the wound with soap and water, then pack a little brown sugar onto the cut (enough to thoroughly cover it). Put a Band-Aid over it and leave on for a few hours; repeat once or twice over the course of 36 hours. You'll be on the mend before you know it.

PEST CATCHER

Trap an annoying housefly stat with the brown sugar-based fly paper. With a butter knife, spread a dab of petroleum jelly on a small piece of cardboard, then sprinkle it with a pinch of brown sugar. Flies are drawn to the brown sugar--then get stuck in the jelly. Hang it like a traditional fly paper (just punch a hole in the cardboard and insert twine). Bye-bye flies!

Bloomberg News

Freescale's Owners Seek IPO at 36% Discount to Buyout Price

May 25 (Bloomberg) -- Freescale Semiconductor Holdings Ltd. is selling shares at a 36 percent discount to what private-equity owners paid as it attempts the biggest initial public offering of a U.S. technology company since Google Inc.

The chipmaker is offering 43.5 million shares for $22 to $24 each, compared with an average price of $36 that investors including Blackstone Group LP, Carlyle Group, Permira Advisers LLP and TPG Capital paid for Freescale, according to a filing with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. The midpoint of the range would value the unprofitable company at about $5.5 billion.

The private-equity firms, which aren't selling their stakes, plan to raise as much as $1.04 billion to pay down Freescale's $7.5 billion in debt accumulated in a 2006 leveraged buyout. While Internet companies LinkedIn Corp. and Yandex NV surged after their IPOs, investors may have less of an appetite for Austin, Texas-based Freescale, the most indebted semiconductor company globally.

"I don't think you're going to find investors who are going to be willing to put their money up until they see the economic benefit for this," said Peter Sorrentino, a portfolio manager at Huntington Asset Advisors in Cincinnati, which oversees $14.8 billion. "It's a capital-intensive industry, and a debt-heavy balance sheet is not your friend. You're up against companies that are spending a lot of money to continue to stay competitive."

At the $23 midpoint, Freescale would be valued at 1.2 times last year's sales, less than the average of 1.9 times for the analog chip industry, according to data compiled by Bloomberg. Texas Instruments Inc., the biggest analog chipmaker, trades at about 2.8 times sales. $1 Billion Loss

Freescale, which will be listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the ticker symbol FSL, has been one of the worst performers among companies taken private during the buyout boom, with a $1 billion net loss in 2010. Other private equity-backed IPOs this year have benefited their investors.

The initial share sale of Kinder Morgan Inc. raised $2.9 billion in February, valuing Carlyle Group's stake at more than twice what it paid. Carlyle was among the investors that sold a combined 13.5 percent of Kinder Morgan in the offering. The offering was later expanded to $3.29 billion as underwriters exercised an over-allotment option to buy more shares.

Blackstone, Carlyle, KKR & Co. and Thomas H. Lee Partners LP similarly used the January IPO of Nielsen Holdings NV, to trim their stakes and reap profits. That offering raised $1.9 billion for the television ratings company and its owners, including an over-allotment sale.

If Freescale sells at the midpoint of its expected range, the shares owned by the buyout firms would be valued 36 percent below the average purchase price they and other investors paid. Buyout Boom

Freescale was among the largest LBOs in 2006 and 2007, when 9 of the 10 biggest buyouts of all time were announced, including Kinder Morgan.

"This a deal that I'm sure they regret having done," said Steven Kaplan, a professor at the University of Chicago Booth School of Business. "Still, at some point, people thought it was going to be a complete zero. Going from a zero to whatever it is today is a win, so give them some credit."

The global financial crisis hit Freescale less than two years after its owners closed their $16.2 billion deal. The firms brought in Chief Executive Officer Rich Beyer, the former CEO of rival Intersil Corp., to close factories and design facilities, cut jobs, and get out of less profitable businesses. As markets recovered, Freescale also reduced borrowings by more than $2 billion after negotiating with bondholders. 'Sustainable Structure'

The IPO is the latest step toward "achieving a sustainable capital structure, but they're not there yet," said Jason Pompeii, an analyst with Fitch Ratings in Chicago. "They need to outgrow the market, they need to capture market share and they need the markets to remain robust. It's not an easy task."

Rob Hatley, a Freescale spokesman, declined to comment. Deutsche Bank AG, Citigroup Inc., Barclays Plc, Credit Suisse Group AG and JPMorgan Chase & Co. are managing the offering.

Freescale is trying to repeat the success of other buyout-backed chipmakers that sold shares ahead of an industry rally. Avago Technologies Ltd., whose owners include KKR and Silver Lake, has more than doubled since its IPO in August 2009. NXP Semiconductor NV, backed by KKR and Bain Capital LLC, has almost doubled since going public last August, when it raised less than it originally planned.

The Philadelphia Semiconductor Index, which investors use to track chip industry performance, gained 23 percent in the last 12 months. Makers of analog chips, which provide basic functions in everything from washing machines to military hardware, rose 54 percent in that period as a group, according to Bloomberg data. The gains have leveled off in recent months. Window 'Closed'

Freescale "can't expect to be bailed out by a bull market in semiconductor stocks," said Francis Gaskins, president of IPOdesktop.com in Marina del Rey, California, in a research note this week. "That window seems to have closed."

Demand for new semiconductor stocks has been limited this year. Magnachip Semiconductor Corp., a Luxembourg-based maker of chips used in phones, notebook computers and digital cameras, has gained 2 percent since it went public in March. BCD Semiconductor Manufacturing Ltd., based in Shanghai, is down 9 percent from its January debut.

A successful offering by Freescale may boost the rest of the sector, according to Peter Astiz, co-head of the technology practice at law firm DLA Piper in East Palo Alto, California. While investors are more focused on snapping up Internet IPOs, money can still be made in semiconductors, he said.

“As advanced as the technology is in semiconductors, it’s almost like it’s old technology in the way people think about it,” said Astiz, who represented Magnachip in its IPO. “People tend to flock to the latest, greatest thing.”

Adopt a Grandchild Scholarship Program

We are starting the 2011/2012 budget year with our new Board President, George DeWitte, and one new Vice President, Jackie Wishon. The Club continues to thrive and it is great to see the club members take leadership roles which foster renewal. This new leadership also brings about continuity regarding our key club community objective, the goal of funding scholarships for grandchildren of the membership.

It should be very rewarding to the membership that the Club, through individual donations, has directly supported 34 deserving grandchildren over the last seven years. This is a total of $34,000 dollars donated for scholarships from the Club membership.

We are beginning this current cycle with few left over funds in the scholarship fund and the Board will be counting on the membership to be generous in their support of these students who want to achieve a higher education.

The Board thought it important to set a goal for this years scholarship funding.

Last year we were able to raise approximately $1900.00 through membership support and the Orth Raffle proceeds. We normally try to give out at least four $1000.00 scholarships each year or a total of $4000.00 in scholarship funds. Based on our planning you can see that we have to take some monies from the Club’s general fund for support this important outreach program.

We have decided to set a goal for 2011/2012 to raise at least $2500.00 to support the scholarship fund. We have a little over 1000 families in the Club and approximately 1700 members of the Club currently. If each family made a donation to the Scholarship Fund of just $5.00 we could raise $5000.00. If each grandparent that had a graduating student receive a scholarship gave $50.00, say pay it forward for another grandchild, we could raise $1700.00. You can see with this math it should be quite simple to raise our minimum goal of $2500.00.

I will add information each month to the newsletter regarding monies received for scholarships and how we are doing to the goal.

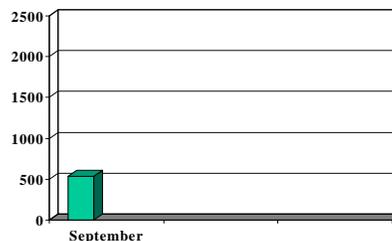

We are looking forward to another successful fund raising year. We are aware that times are tough, given the current economy, but remember it is probably even tougher for families currently trying to send their children on to college. A very small amount from every member can mean a great deal to one of our grandchildren.

To donate to the scholarship fund all you need to do is check the scholarship box on the renewal form when you renew your membership and add an additional amount to your check. You may also donate the day of the monthly luncheons by stopping by and seeing Frances our Treasurer.

It is important to note that these scholarships are totally funded by the membership without support from any other source. Please give generously to this important club project when you renew your membership.

Scholarship Chair

(Reuters) - Google Inc's biggest deal ever, acquiring Motorola Mobility Holdings Inc for $12.5 billion, is an attempt to buy insurance against increasingly aggressive legal attacks from rivals such as Apple Inc.

The acquisition of one of the mobile telecommunications industry's most storied names is Google co-founder Larry Page's boldest move since taking over as CEO in April, launching the Internet giant into a lower-margin manufacturing business and pitting it against many of the 38 other handset companies that now use its Android software.

Motorola Inc was split this year into two: Motorola Mobility, which got the faster-growing cellphone and TV set-top box businesses; and Motorola Solutions, which sells gear like walkie-talkies to corporate and government clients.

Google is paying a massive 63 percent premium to gain access to one of the mobile phone industry's largest patent libraries. The company had been under pressure to build a patent portfolio after losing out to Apple, Microsoft Corp and others in a recent auction of bankrupt Nortel's assets.

Unlike the Nortel deal and others, the fact that Google avoided having to compete in an auction for Motorola by engaging in exclusive negotiations for the company underscores the pressure it was under to bolster its patent portfolio. Paying such a rich premium even though it was the only buyer dovetails with analysts' view that the increasingly litigious posture its competitors have taken over intellectual property left the Internet search giant with no choice but to pay up.

"No matter how you think about this, you have to look at it through the spectrum of the Android ecosystem under incredible attack from an IP (intellectual property) perspective. And this is Google going out and trying to fix that," said W.P. Stewart Advisors Chief Investment Officer Jim Tierney. "The biggest implication here is that Google wants Android to be one of the dominant phone operating systems for years to come."

THE MORE THINGS CHANGE ...

The acquisition is likely to draw even closer regulatory scrutiny than usual, with the search leader already the subject of antitrust inquiries. Experts will want to review how it affects mobile industry competition.

But the deal -- which took Wall Street by surprise -- appears to mark a shift in strategy from Google's traditional Internet search and advertising empire and forays into video and social networking.

"The danger is that other handset makers feel disenfranchised," said Nomura Securities global technology specialist Richard Windsor. "Motorola is the weaker player. This could actually collapse the entire community."

Page, who also launched the ambitious Google+ social network since taking over as CEO, reassured investors on Monday this would not happen, saying Motorola will be run as a separate company licensing Android software in the same way as rivals like HTC Corp and LG Electronics.

While Apple's iPhone leads in market prestige and is considered more innovative, Android has managed to quietly surpass it in market share. Android held a 43.4 percent share of the smartphone market at the end of the second quarter, ahead of Nokia's 22 percent, according to Gartner data. Apple ranked third with 18 percent, the data showed.

Shares of Motorola Mobility jumped more than 55 percent on the news, while Google shares fell by roughly 1 percent.

The deal values Motorola Mobility at $40 per share in cash, a 63 percent premium to its Friday closing price. The terms of the deal also features an unusually rich reverse breakup fee of $2.5 billion, according to a source close to the situation.

"It's a deal that will take time to pay off, but they have a lot of cash and they want to chase after profit," BGC Partners analyst Colin Gillis said.

The deal delivers a windfall for investors including Carl Icahn, Motorola's top shareholder with a stake of just over 11 percent. The activist shareholder had been urging Motorola to look into splitting off its patent business -- one of the biggest in the industry -- from its handset business, ranked eighth in the world by Gartner in terms of unit sales. In late July, Icahn even went so far as to estimate that Motorola could be worth $44 per share, or $13 billion in a sale.

INTO THE LIVING ROOM

As part of the deal, Google also gets Motorola's set-top box businesses, giving its nascent TV operation a much-needed boost by providing it with a more direct route into the home.

Bernstein analyst Craig Moffett noted that Google, a frequent disrupter of the pay-television market via its ownership of YouTube and launching of over-the-top TV products that allow consumers to get streaming video in the home, will now be one of its largest suppliers.

"It will be fascinating to see whether this tempers their enthusiasm for disruptive business models as they have to face the practical realities of satisfying their cable customers," said Moffett. "I think the cable industry would be delighted to see Google inside the tent."

Google said it expects the deal to close by the end of 2011 or early in 2012, and that it was confident it would gain the regulatory approvals required in the United States and Europe and the blessing of Motorola Mobility's shareholders.
